

Federal University of Lavras
INFOCOMP Journal of Computer Science

PUBLICATION GUIDELINES

1. INFOCOMP publishes original scientific and technological papers in Portuguese and English. The papers should be related to Computer Science.
2. The papers should be submitted in PDF format, without the author's informations, by the JEMS system (<https://submissoes.sbc.org.br/infocomp>) of the Brazilian Computer Society (SBC). Login and password are necessary, but it can be obtained on-line by new users of the JEMS system.
3. The papers should be in Paper Letter (21.5 x 28.0 cm), space 1.1 between lines (or at least 13 pts), font Times New Roman 10, justified text, with superior, inferior, left and right margins of 2.5 cm. The number of pages should not exceed 10. Papers with more than 10 pages may be accepted after an analysis by the editorial board.
4. The first page should contain TITLE, AUTHORS (only in the final version), ABSTRACT and Keywords. After, it should contain the following text centralized: "(Received January 01, 2005 / Accepted December 31, 2005)", for posterior edition with the correct dates. These informations should not exceed 01 page and should be in 01 column. The TITLE should be in font size 14.
5. The AUTHOR'S names (only in the final and accepted version) should be sided horizontally, identified by a superscripted number. The affiliation and the email of each author should be written right below the names.
6. The text of the paper should be formatted in 02 columns, separated by 0.5cm, with numerated sections and subsections. Ex: 1. Introduction, 1.1. Terminology. Figures and tables may occupy the page width, if necessary. The titles of figures and tables should be numerated and centralized below.
7. The references should be numerated and listed in alphabetical order. Ex: [5] Hougardy, S. Even pairs and the strong perfect graph conjecture, Discrete Math. v.154, p.277-288, 1996. Citations in the text should be made based on the number of the reference. Ex, "In [5], it was proved that...".
8. Footnotes may be accepted, when strongly necessary, for explanations that cannot be included in the text, like: (a) name of the research institution; (b) support organizations and other financial supports; (c) reference to the publication as part of MSc or PhD thesis ; (d) personal communication. Citations of footnotes in the text should be made based on the superscripted number.
9. The authors retain author's rights for future publications, but the journal is allowed to edit and reproduce its papers.
10. Non compliance with these norms will result in the non acceptance of the paper.